VOL. V.....NO. 1265. NEW-YORK, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1855. PRICE TWO CENTS.

ROCHESTER.—"The Germania Society" gives its first performance here to-morrow night (Thursday.)

MILWAUKIE.—A testimonial benefit was tendered to Mr. W. DAVIS, the stage manager of VAN HORN'S "Varieties," on Friday last.

CLEVELAND.—The drama of "Rip Van Winkle" has been revived at the Cleveland Theatre. CONY and WEBB are at the Athenæum with their dogs.

DETROIT.—Madame ISIDORA CLARK gave a Grand Concert here on Tuesday.

Theatricals in California.

SACRAMENTO.—Miss JOEY GOUGENHEIM appears to have captivated the Sacramentans. On the occasion of her benefit the house was crowded to excess, and in one of the bouquets thrown upon the stage, there was a "rich diamond bracelet—the gift of some ardent admirer of worth and beauty." The Misses GOUGENHEIM will proceed from Sacramento to Marysville.

SACRAMENTO THEATRE.—This edifice promises to be one of the most substantial and ornamental in that city. It is thought it will be ready for the reception of the public by about the 10th of October.

SAN FRANCISCO—METROPOLITAN THEATRE.—There was a crowded house on the occasion of the benefit and last appearance in California of Miss LAURA KEENE. The bill was the farce of "Is she a Woman," "The Irish Widow," and "Novelty," all of which passed off very satisfactorily. Miss KEENE will, we understand, go to New-Orleans, where she is engaged at the "Gayety."

THEATRICAL SUMMARY.—The appearance of McKEAN BUCHANAN, in this city, has created quite a revival in dramatic affairs, and the Union Theatre has been nightly crowded since his début. BUCHANAN has given several Shakesperian characters, but was most successful as Sir Harcourt Courtley in "London Assurance."

Mr. B. BAKER has the management of the Metropolitan, and has been bringing out comedies, dramas and extravaganzas in first-rate style. Miss GORDON, the English actress, is now playing an engagement.

The American is idle, but will probably soon open with the GOUGENHEIMS and a good stock company.

Madame ANNA BISHOP and M. BOCHSA left for Australia in the Kit Carson, as poor as when they arrived in California. Madame BISHOP'S success has not at all been equal to her deserts.

Mrs. SINCLAIR, HENRY SEDLEY and others, are on a tour through the southern mines, and performed in Maraposa last Saturday.

Prof. RISLEY and son, with Mons. D'EVANI, are conducting Risley's Vatican at Stockton. The papers speak well of their performances.

The Misses GOUGENHEIM have been delighting the people of Marysville, and receiving the dollars in a manner quite acceptable. They had a "bumper" benefit recently.

ESTELLE POTTER and her husband are also at Marysville, preparing to open the theatre in that city in a few days.

JOEL SILSBEE, the Yankee comedian, is in this city, just recovering from a severe spell of sickness.

Lee and Marshall's Hippodrome is now giving entertainments in San Francisco. They depart for the Sandwich Islands on the bark Yankee on Monday next.

The American opens on the 10th, and has an excellent stock company engaged. It embraces the Misses GOUGENHEIM, Mrs. JUDAH, Mrs. THOMAS, and Messrs. BOOTH, SEBAR, SMITH, and others.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. CONNER are expected to arrive by the next steamer.

Foreign.

LONDON.—Drury Lane Theatre opened on Monday, Oct. 2, under the management of Mr. C. T. SMITH. A new spectacle piece, from the pen of Mr. BUCKSTONE, was produced with moderate success. It is called "Mitserts," and the subject is taken from Herodotus. On the following Wednesday, Mr. CHARLES MATTHEWS appeared at the same house in a new comedy called "Married for Money."....The Adelphi opened on the same night, having, in the recess, been redecorated. "Rory O'More" was played with HUDSON as the hero. This play was originally produced here with poor POWER....Mr. ANDERSON, the "Wizard or the North," is still doing a good business at the Lyceum. There is an extraordinary rumor, by the way, that Mr. ANDERSON will undertake the management of the Royal Italian Opera House, Covent Garden, at Christmas. A London paper says:

"While the affair was in process of negotiation we thought fit not to circulate these rumors; but we are now in a position to state positively that Mr. ANDERSON has really taken upon himself the responsibility of placing on the boards of Covent Garden, at Christmas, an entertainment comprising spectacle and pantomime on a very large scale, and that the best artists of this country and the continent have already been engaged in order to produce it with magnificence and effect. Fortunate as the Wizard has hitherto been in all that he has attempted, we must augur the greatest success for this his new and most enterprising speculation."

WORCESTER, (Eng.)—Miss CUSHMAN has been playing here with success.

EDINBURGH.—"Henry the VIIIth" has been revived here with great magnificence and unequivocal success.

MANCHESTER.—A new local drama has been produced at the Queen's Theatre here, called "The Seven Stages of man; or, the Cradle, Manhood, and the Grave." The author is Mr. EGAN, a member of the company. The play was successful.

PARIS.—The Italian Opera season commenced with the favorable circumstance of a crowded and brilliant audience, in which Spaniards formed a large majority. Out of compliment to ROSSINI, who is now in Paris, the opera selected was "Moise," not as originally performed at the Italiens, but the additions and decorations with which it was subsequently given at the Grand Opera. CARRION, EVEZARDI and ANGELINI made their débuts on the present occasion, and produced a favorable impression. The prima donna was Madame FIORENTINI, who was first introduced to the stage by Mr. LUMLEY; and it is a curious coincidence that the three prima donnas at the Grand Opera, the Italiens, and the Opera Comique, namely, CRUVELLI, FIORENTINI, and CAROLINE DUPREZ as also ROSATI, the first danseuse of the Grand Opera, made their débuts also under the management of the same gentleman. For some reason or other the opera went off rather coldly, and though the public were very good-naturedly disposed, the opening night can hardly be set down as a successful one. ROSSINI has addressed the following letter to Mr. MITCHELL, who is now in Paris with the Cologne Choral Singers:

SIR: I am very sensible to all the flattering expressions to myself, contained in the letter which you have done me the honor to address to me. I have been as much surprised as delighted with what I heard from the Choral Society of Cologne. Be good enough, Sir, to be my cordial interpreter in expressing to those artists my entire satisfaction; and if my health permit, I will avail myself of your obliging offer, assured that you will recognize in my acceptance of it an evidence of the interest I take in these charming concerts. GIACHIMO ROSSINI.

BORDEAUX.—Madame RISTORI has just appeared with great success at Bordeaux.

MARSEILLES.—During the representation of the "Noces Venitiennes," at the theatre of Marseilles' one of the actors, named DENIER, in a mêlée on the stage, received a severe stab in the arm from a poignard, which unfortunately, was not one of those usually made use of in such mimic warfare, but a real weapon. The performance, however, was not interrupted by the accident, for the actor, in the agitation of the moment, did not perceive the accident until he had retired from the stage, when he found himself bleeding profusely, and soon after fainted. The wound was immediately dressed by a surgeon, and DENIER conveyed to his lodgings. At the close of the performance, a report of the accident having got abroad in the house, the manager was called on for an explanation, as the wounded man is one of the particular favorites of the public at Marseilles. The Marseilles journals have since stated that the actor, just named, is going on so well that the wound at present causes no disquietude.

Miscellaneous Items.

The Metropolitan Theatre "burst up" (or rather the Spanish Company there) on Tuesday. There was a performance on Monday, when symptoms of impending dissolution manifested themselves. Signor ROSSIO, the fiddler, addressed the audience in the midst of a solo performance. He refused to go on with the music, saying that the orchestral accompaniments were insufficient, and generally complaining of everything. It is probable that there was some cause for these complainings, but Signor ROSSIO committed an unpardonable error in presuming to address the audience from the stage. An energetic manager would have kicked him out of the house for such impertinence....Miss ADELE ROBERTSON, and Mr. BOUCICAULT, her stage lord and master, leave the City today for the South. The former to Louisville, the latter to New-Orleans....Mr. EASTMAN, the New-York pianist, a young man of considerable talent, has returned to the City.....The BOOKLET'S have produced an excellent version of ADOLPH ADAM'S popular opera "Le Chalet." It met with decided success, and will be repeated every evening this week....Not many years before Mrs. SIDDONS' retirement this celebrated actress went down to Bath to play a few of her favorite characters. One morning, coming from rehearsal, she called in at a shop to purchase some article of dress. Wholly absorbed in the part she was to perform, while the shopman was displaying his muslins, &c., Mrs. S. took one in her hand, and fixing her eyes full on the man, exclaimed in a solemn voice, "Did you ever hear, this would wash?" The poor fellow in great alarm began to think the intellects of his customer were not right, but Mrs. SIDDONS, recalled to recollection by his astonishment, with a smile, apologized for her absence of mind, and repeated the question in a voice better suited to the occasion.....STAGE DRESSING YEARS AGO.—Our provincial theatres exhibit some strange anomalies with regard to costume, and there the sons and daughters of to-day have middle-aged sires wearing the costume of the time of George I. But the most singular anomaly of dress ever encountered by my experience was at a small theatre in Ireland, not far from Sligo. The entertainment consisted of "Venice Preserved" and the balcony scene from "Romeo and Juliet." The Venetian ladies and gentlemen were attired in every possible variety of costume; yet not one of them wore a dress that could have been distinguished at any period as being once worn by any people, civilized or savage. Jaffier and Pierre, however, presented the greatest singularity, for they were not only indescribably decked, but they had but one pair of buskin boots between them; and, accordingly, when it was necessary for both to be in the presence of the audience, each stood at the side-scene with a leg in leg protruded into sight, and duly booted. Another coincidence struck me in the Irish theatre. The performance were announced as for the benefit of a certain actor and his creditors. I should have set this down to Irish humor, had I not remembered having read that SHILLING, in 1719, had made the same announcement at Lincoln's-inn-fields.—Doran's Habits of Man.....Mme. Gassi, it is said, is to sing at the Ventadour, Paris, before the end of the season.....HERR ANDER, the Viennese Tenor, has just died.....The amateur performance which was to take place at the Metropolitan this evening, has been postponed to next Saturday evening. Mr. WARE, who took the part of the Hunchback so successfully at a similar exhibition some time since, will impersonate Hamlet; the rest of the cast will be filled chiefly by members of the Sketch Club. Our young authors and artists, apparently, are desirous of affecting the dramatic weaknesses indulged in by their more eminent London confrères.

How they Treat Abolitionists in Alabama.

We learn from the Montgomery (Ala.) Advertiser and Gazette that a couple of Abolition incendiaries were dealt with in that city, on the night of the 17th, according to the statute made and provided in such cases, Judge Lynch presiding. The Mobile paper enjoys the thing amazingly. Hear it:

"One of these scamps was named DAY, and the other CHASE—whether a relative of the Governor elect of Ohio, or not, our cotemporary does not say. DAY was proven to be the correspondent of Northern Abolition papers, and of tampering with the slaves in the city.

The Committee appointed to wait on him and request his attendance before the judge and jury who had called a court to try his cause, found him in his room, which was also observed by the presence of a rooty nymph, whom DAY appears to have selected for the purpose of carrying into practice his amalgamation instincts. A ride upon a rail, a ducking in a pool of water, and an admonition to make tracks, was the award of the Court, all of which was duly carried into effect.

The Court decided upon CHASE'S case also, who was indicted upon charges much the same as those under which his colaborer was indicted. He was sentenced to the same treatment, but the deputation dispatched to serve the process, returned the writ non est inventus. A strict watch was, however, being kept for him.

The Advertiser concludes its notice of the proceedings with a description:

In order that the movements of these graceless scamps may be watched, should they have the temerity to stop short of Mason and Dixon's line, we will append a description of them:

DAY stands about five feet eight inches in his stockings, stout built, prides himself on a reddish moustache, a profusion of whiskers, goatee and hair of the same color—walks erect, and wears an impudent, devil-may-care frown—is seldom seen without a cigar in his mouth, and sports a bottle-green frock coat. He is about 30 years of age, a stone-cutter by trade, a Northerner by birth and education; and take him all in all, as contemptible a specimen of humanity as ever road a rail.

CHASE stands full six feet in his gaiters, stout built, glories in a light moustache, hair of the same color, and is inclined to baldness. His complexion is fair, eyes blue; is, withal, a passably good-looking man, and will hereafter, if Judge Lynch should not use him too roughly, present quite a gentlemanly appearance, as he made a most successful negotiation with the very popular and extensive clothing establishment of H. N. WILKINSON & Co. on the day preceding the assembling of the Court. He wears, ordinarily, a drab colored hat. He also hails from the North. His avocation is that of a bartender.

We have heard it hinted that the Judge will tarry here for some time, as there are some other cases over which he contemplates extending his jurisdiction. Offenders will therefore be on their guard."

Mutiny on Board the Ship "Australia"—One Man Shot.

Last evening about dusk Capt. JEREMIAH SMITH, of the ship Australia, lying off Burling-slip, came on shore from his vessel in search of assistance to quell a riot which had arisen as a result of the drunkenness of the crew.

THE CAPTAIN'S STATEMENT.

He made, the following statement:—That, having shipped his men in preparation for an early clearance from this port for Liverpool, a row was got up among some disorderlies, who refused to obey the orders of the officers of the craft. The row continued among the men, who from words had recourse to blows, when several of the rioters drew sheath knives, and did considerable damage among their number by their violent gesticulations. The Captain and mate at first endeavored, by persuasion, to induce them to put down their weapons, but, mild words being set at nought, an order was then given to that effect, which also being disobeyed, the mate drew a pistol and fired, wounding one man, whose name we could not learn, through the fleshy part of the arm; hereupon the men turned, as they supposed, upon their common enemies, the Captain and mate, the former of whom made his escape over the side of the vessel, and thence in a boat to shore. Application being made at the Second District Station for assistance, when Lieut. FINNEY dispatched Sergt. DELONG and 11 men: our reporter followed in their wake and found, on his arrival, that order had been in a great measure restored. Complaints were thereupon made by the Capt. against the following parties: THERNON BYRNES, JOHN SMITH, JAMES KIELY alias BURKE, JOHN BROWN. These men were brought on shore. Meantime we gained the following statement from the crew:

THE SAILORS' ACCOUNT.

The men generally charge that two sailors, names unknown, one of them a Portuguese, got into a fight in the forecastle over their beggage, which had just got aboard, when the crew generally stood around enjoying the sport. The native of Portugal, however, getting vexed and worsted, drew his knife, whereon the officers of the ship rushed among them using with unsparing hands slung-shots and other weapons. This indiscriminate use of such articles caused BYRNES to be cut severely over the head. SMITH was knocked on to the deck stunned, and was after severely kicked, causing him to spit blood. BROWN was also badly cut in three separate places about the head and face. The men, before disposed to find fun in the fight, now began themselves to grow rusty, and the third mate, to intimidate them, went forward and procured a pistol with which, entering the crowd of fighters, he shot a man in the fleshy part of the left arm.

The men above named were detained at the Second Ward Station last night, when the District Surgeon was sent for, and the wounds of the injured were properly attended to.

DEATH OF COMMODORE DANIELS.—Among our obituary record will be found a notice of the death of one of our oldest citizens, Commodore JOHN D. DANIELS. This gentleman in early life filled a large space in the public eye from being identified with the revolutionary struggles in Columbia, in South America. As a naval commander, his bravery and skill won for him a large debt of gratitude from those for whom he assisted to achieve independence, and when, a few years since, he visited Laguayra, the scene of his early exertions, he was received as a public benefactor, and his services acknowledged by the Venezuelan Government.—*Balt. LATEST INTELLIGENCE

By Telegraph to the New-York Daily Times.

FROM WASHINGTON.

THE SOUND DUES QUESTION.

Probable Action of the Congress of Nations.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Daily Times.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, Oct. 30.

Denmark is evidently much alarmed at the prospect of being compelled to give up her Sound Dues exactions. She is endeavoring to postpone the blow threatened by the United States, and her last and only card is exposed in her attempt to have the subject referred to a Congress of Nations, to meet, according to her proposition, some time next month.

I do not believe she has anything to hope from such a Congress, for from such diplomatic information as I can gather here, her pretensions will have no effective support from European powers, notwithstanding the efforts made to show that France is ready to sustain them.

The question, whether the United States ought to submit its rights in this case to decision by European powers, is a very important one. As a nation we are unanimous in the conviction that the Sound Tolls have no basis of right or justice; and yet, if we carry the question into the proposed Congress, and European nations find it their interest to decide against us, we will be bound to submit to their decree, and bow our necks to the yoke we have already spurned.

But, even though certain that the Congress would decide the case in our favor, the policy of submitting it is very questionable, because in so doing we would set a dangerous precedent, under which we might soon have imposed upon us a European Congress to settle our relations with Mexico or any other power. I take it for granted our Government will consent to be caught in no such trap.

But whether the United States take any part in this "Congress of Nations" or not, it will doubtless assemble next month. Russia, of course, will be represented therein; and it is not improbable that this opportunity will be embraced for another endeavor to patch up a peace between Russia and the Allies, with fair prospects of success, as "Sebastopol is taken," and all the combatants are panting with exhaustion. Indeed, it is shrewdly suspected that the real purpose of the Convention looks more to an effort of this sort, than to the discussion of the Sound Dues question, the fate of which is a foregone conclusion. A female operative, named CARTER, perished in the flames, and two others are reported to have been killed by jumping from the windows. An old man had an arm badly crushed, and another a leg broken. When the train left, the fire threatened the remainder of the village with destruction.

The fire was stopped with the destruction of the factory and out-buildings.

The Liquor Law in Maine.

BANGOR, Me., Tuesday, Oct. 30.

There is considerable excitement in our community, in consequence of the discovery that some of the liquors seized under process of law, are missing from the depository, and from the fact that the houses of the members of the police have been searched, without any considerable quantity of liquor being found. CITY POLITICS.

Eighteenth Ward Young Men's Brooks Association.

A crowded meeting was held last night at De Milt Dispensary, in compliance with an invitation issued by the Eighteenth Ward Young Men's Brooks Association. The fair sex formed a large contingent of the assemblage, and the meeting generally was characterized by great apparent respectability. The "young men" who appeared on the occasion were, perhaps, rather uproarious at first, but on the whole the proceedings were marked by great enthusiasm, and, no doubt, considered as eminently satisfactory by those more immediately interested.

Mr. O. D. Baldwin occupied the Chair.

In opening the business of the evening, he said that Mr. Brooks was the candidate of the Protestants of this District, and, as they thought, of all the respectable part of the community in it. He alluded in highly complimentary terms to Mr. Brooks' conduct as a Senator.

After speeches by J. W. Gerard, Esq., Mr. Weed and others, and songs by Messrs. Edney, McFarland and Fraser,

Mr. BROOKS was introduced amid tremendous demonstrations of applause. He made Mr. JEFFERSON'S remark, that "the cities are the sores on the body politic," the groundwork of a forcible denunciation of the criminal neglect of her interests exhibited by New-York City in sending had men as her Representatives to the State Legislature, and of the abuses of the primary election system. He attributed much of the opposition he now met with in the Sixth District, and which he has met with in the Whig Nominating Convention, to the active part he had taken in the last Legislature in defeating the bill to give a Whig, Democrat and Half-Shell the control of the canals for 10 years at $100,000 a year; the proposed contractors undertaking to do all the ordinary repairs which, as he had ascertained, cost but $250,000 a year. He then vindicated his action in voting for the Harbor bill. In referring to the Church Tenure bill he alleged that in his action thereon he supported the measure because he thought proper to extend the same privilege to the Roman Catholic citizen in the Cathedral and in the Church, that the law would give to the Protestant. He had been influenced to take that action because he discovered that Archbishop Hughes had been in the habit, for twelve years, of transferring property from the Trustees of the churches to himself, and owning it in his own right, not for his heirs and successors in the church—not as John Hughes, Archbishop of the Churches—but in his own place, legal rights—it was because he carried out this fact and opposite to the purpose of that he met with his (the Archbishop's) condemnation, and the powerful combination of his church against which he had now to contend. Mr. Brooks declared that whoever charged him with being a bigot of a proscriptive man, wronged him and calumniated him. He bore no prejudice nor hate to any man, wherever he was born. Who ever charged him with being a Pro-Slavery man—with holding one sentiment false to the North and to New-York—calumniated him and wronged all his history and associations. After some further observations in the same strain, Mr. Brooks concluded amid a storm of applause and cheering.

Mr. Fraser, by way of finale, sang another of his warmly patriotic and excessively comic effusions, and then the meeting broke up.

American Ratification in the Seventeenth Ward.

There was a jolly gathering of the Americans at the old Tompkins Market last night, at the ratification of the Seventeenth Ward Know-Nothing ticket. The whole Ward was illuminated early in the evening—tar-barrels suffered immensely, and the surrounding Wards must have been black with the lampblack—the result of the untrimmed wicks of myriads of oil lamps which they burned.

A stage was erected hard by the Market shed, corner of Sixth-street and Third-avenue. On the roof of the Market were scores of banners, and a lively band of music occupied the stand. It was for a long time hoped that by some dire accident the old Market would take fire and so the City be relieved of an eye-sore; but no such good luck attended the enterprise of the little fellows who climbed over the shingle roof, bearing torches and and rude shafts of burning and dripping tar. The meeting organized by calling Gen. John Lloyd to the Chair, and electing a goodly number of Vice Presidents and Secretaries. Among the Vice Presidents was a Briggs and Hiram Anderson, the carpet man.

The President opened with a speech.

Mr. FRAZIER, of Tennessee, followed with what the old folks would call a "fair-to-middling" speech. Two stories, one about "your darned biting hogs, booing around," the other about the fellow who "knew his playmate was hit because he seen him scratch the place," constituted a part of it.

Mr. Fraser sung two capital songs, and all hands went into convulsions—of laughter.

Mr. May and J. H. Bellows, Esq., followed. The resolutions adopted were good. But about the nominees, we heard little. The only one we heard mention of was Mr. BROOKS, who belongs to another District.

We did not expect to see so fine a turn-out in the old Seventeenth, where every second man you meet is a German, and every other one speaks English with a brogue. But Sam is a curious individual, and where nobody else has a better ticket in the field, we are always glad to see him lucky.

After the meeting a very creditable procession was formed, which passed through the thoroughfares of the Ward. As it neared Fourteenth-street in First-avenue, it was attacked by a hostile party, but the assailants were dispersed with a few bloody noses and the American loss of a few torches and devices.

Eleventh Ward Republican Club.

This Association met last evening at Manhattan Hall, No. 665 Fourth-street, Mr. Charles Perley in the chair.

The following nomination was supported, after which Mr. W. H. Burleigh addressed the audience, remarking that even the Herald predicted for them an undoubted success:

For Assembly—Twenty-eighth District, Thomas A Miller, Councilman; Twenty-ninth District, Isaac B. Shasts; Thirtieth District, Wm. C. Duryee. Thirty-First District, Ben. Rhodes.

Assessor—John McGowan.

Commissioner of Schools—Charles Curtis.

Inspector—William Gray.

Trustees—Richard L. Lanemore, Daniel D. Wright, and a Ward Committee of twenty-five.

Ratification Meetings.

Two Democratic mass meetings were held in the Twenty-second Ward last evening. Resolutions indorsing the Ward nominations were passed at both, and one of them was addressed by Alexander E. Morton, Esq., and by Capt. Rynders.

A meeting to indorse the nomination of John Clancy for Alderman, was held in front of the Sixth Ward Hotel last evening. Speeches were made by Wm. J. Ross and by Messrs. Clancy and Phillips.

☞ The Germans of the Eleventh Ward met last evening, at Fortuna Hall, Second-street, and ratified the Mechanics' Hall ticket. The First-Warders did the same at No. 28 Greenwich-street, and also discussed Ward matters. The Twentieth-Warders did likewise at No. 196 West Thirty-sixth-street.

☞ The Germans of the Twenty-eighth Council District (Eleventh Ward) were called together last night, to ratify the nomination of Wm. Taylor, the present incumbent. Not many attended, however. Mr. Frederick Wagner seems to be the favorite for office among his countrymen.

☞ The Fifteenth Ward Americans were to have met last night at Convention Hall, Wooster-street. Our reporter found a large flag hung out, stating that "Americans must here to-night," but saw no such meeting. On the first floor was a coal yard, on the second a dancing-school, and on the third a lodge meeting of the American Protestant Association.

☞ Two of the three German Rifle Companies of the City have thrown off their allegiance to Tammany, and fully support it. The Albany Post-Zeitung, a semi-official German paper, is among the Germans of the State, and the Union at the head of their column.

☞ The Hard Shells, heretofore [illegible] Anti-Know-Nothing sentiment, are eagerly [illegible] with the anti-humbug gentlemen to step and look you. In the Fifteenth Council District, they have nominated the K. N. candidate, who is said to have been one of the first members of the Fifteenth Ward Council. [illegible]

☞ Among our advertisements, there is a document sprung by the Republican Committee meeting to-morrow evening. Some of the [illegible] nominations have a curious look—some more so than that for the seat of the Supreme Court Judge.

☞ Charles A. Peabody, Esq., has accepted the Republican nomination for Justice of the Supreme Court, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Hon. E. H. Morris.

☞ At a meeting of the Fourteenth Ward Republican Club, held Oct. 26, Benjamin Orr, Esq., was nominated for member of Assembly for the Twelfth District, Fourteenth Ward.

☞ There was a good turnout of the "Union Democracy," last night, at Kleer's (Fifty-ninth-street and Second-avenue) to ratify the ticket headed with Richard Flynn, for Councilman.

☞ A special meeting of the Half-Shell General Committee was held at St. John's Hall, corner of Delancy-street and the Bowery, last evening, the business of general interest was transacted.

LONG ISLAND POLITICS.

Kings County Liquor Dealers Association.

An adjourned meeting of this Association was held at Toynbee' Hotel, Montague-street, Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon, when the State Constitutional ticket was adopted, and the following candidates put in nomination by other parties, were selected for their County, City, and Judiciary ticket:

Senator—John A. Dayton, Democrat.
Sheriff—Jerome Ryerson, Democrat.
Register—Jacob Measeres, Democrat.

The Express Sad but Thoughtless.

The Express—predisposed to the blues, because the papers generally found more to report at a ratification meeting in the Eleventh Ward—is shocked at the omission of journalism in the City; casting, at times, a caricature in our brief notice of the Eleventh Ward Know-Nothing meeting on the 26th. The omission is not very obvious to one who is not morbidly nervous.

As to the pitching in to Archbishop HUGHES which the Express denies that Mr. BROOKS did, we have only to say that our reporter thought he did, and he was there to see. Concerning a portion of Mr. B.'s speech which he did not hear, he trusted to the report of a by-stander, and did that gentleman injustice. We are assured that our reporter was mistaken in stating that Mr. BROOKS made any allusion to the Liquor question.

The Express, however, should bestow whatever it is not itself living in a glass house. In the very issue in which it whines over our presumed carelessness, it insinuates that a good portion of the people gathered at the Union-square Ratification Meeting were unable to read, and puts sentences into Mr. BOSWORTH'S mouth which are both incorrect, and ungrammatical, and wholly original with the Express report. It forgets its own murder and distorted reports of the late Eleventh Ward Republican meeting at Manhattan Hall,—the late Ninth Ward Republican Ratification at the Bleecker Buildings, and many other of that same sort, that its readers well remember. But it makes all the difference in the world whether your bull gores my ox, or my bull "pitches into" yours. Carelessness we do not believe in, where reports are looked for, but ONE many sensitive Rogues, but we speak playfully until a week without rebuke, while you torture us with your fun daily, and shock us and abuse our American English with your serious and well-intended efforts, at least seven times a week.

Sale of Old English Books.

A sale of rare old English books took place at BANGS' last evening. The library belonged to an amateur, whose name did not appear, and comprised many very curious works, and were sold at exceedingly moderate prices, with a few exceptions. An uncut copy of DUGDALE, bound in half morocco, 12 vols., 8vo, was knocked down to KNOX at $5 per volume. It was the London edition of 1693. The "Calephon" of DRUMMOND, edition of 1656, sold for $11. The Tatchells edition of DUGDALE in 4to, brought 25½ cents per volume. The "Bibliographical Decameron" of DIBDIN, London edition of 1817, was bought by Mr. GAINE at $10 per volume, three volumes. An extensive list of old plays, 1602 to 1802, will be disposed of to-night.

Captain Turnbull—The Tobies Turned.

The tables have been turned on Capt. TURNBULL. As he invaded the sacred precincts of the Free-Lovers, so his own private rooms have been entered, and his clothes arrested. One night last week, the Captain's residence was broken into, his sleeping apartment explored, his military robes cast into the hall and plundered. His star of office broken off and carried away, and his pockets ransacked. The rogues left a heavy gold chain which was attached to the badge, supposing, probably, that it was only the ordinary brass arrangement. The Captain was fatigued the night before, and slept soundly, so his loss was not discovered till next day. What will they say at the "Club?"

Crowding the Mourners.

Immediately above Constitution Hall hangs an immense banner across Broadway, on which the State, City and County Republican Resolutions are inscribed in arm-length letters. The members of the five Whig Committees assembling there are particularly struck by it. "Plenty their phalanx."

Has Any One Seen a Stray Man.

ON or about the 15th of October, 1855, EDWARD S. BLISS left his home in Springfield, Mass., and has not been seen since. He is about 30 years of age, 5 feet high, long beard, dark chestnut hair and genteel appearance. He was dressed in a black coat, pantaloons and vest; no suspenders, blue collar and boots. He had in his possession a gold lever watch, "Johnson's maker" and a gold chain. Any information may be sent to Mrs. S. BLISS, Springfield, Mass.

The Rights of Lecturers.

Lecturers and dramatists are a kind of vagabonds to whom the law accords no protection in the exclusive enjoyment of their productions, and musical composers are also, to a certain extent, included in the same category. Those outlaws, who play by no means an unimportant part in the social drama in which we are all actors, now begin to claim. We do not believe, however, that the best informed among them have any such expectation, and still less that there is any likelihood of their doing it. Their support will carry the State. We do not believe, however, that the best informed among them have the doctrine which the original Nebraska bill aimed to establish; and that if the executive clause of the Missouri bill must give way, it was not because Slavery was thought of, but that the doctrine of the bill might not be distinguished from all other questions of right or reason. They are the victims of a heedless partisanship.
